A History Of Epidemics In Britain Part 2

Synopsis

And he seems to have the name à œgentle correctionâ • in mind when he says: à œThis kind of sickness is one of those rods, and the most common rod, wherewith it pleaseth God to brake his people for sin.â • Coganâ ™s dates are indefinite. But there is a letter of the Earl of Arundel to Lord Burghley, 19th October, 1582, which shows that à œhot agueâ • was epidemic as late as the second autumn after the influenza proper: à œThe air of my house in Sussex is so corrupt, even at this time of the year, as when I came away I left twenty-four sick of hot agues.
