"Human beings are collectors. It seems to run in their genes. Today, however, hunting and gathering are no longer necessary skills for survival. The gathering of small white flowers, therefore, is 'pointless' . . . Snowdrop collectors, of course, deny this utterly."— from the book

GÄnter Waldorf was bitten by the gardening bug at the age of six. Together with his wife, he maintained a substantial garden in Nettetal am Niederrhein in Germany, with around 450 varieties of snowdrops and organised successful February Snowdrop Days. He died in 2012.

Marvelous comprehensive quick go to on the genus. Great pictures and varietal descriptions. Wish I lived in the U K Carolyn's Gardens recommends this volume
