This is a cute book. I got it for my 2 year old, and although it is not one of her favorites she does go through spells when she carries it around for a while. She loves pulling on the tabs, especially the one for the beaver. (Although she also loves twisting the beaver's head around, so the buzzing sound isn't as loud as it once was.) If you're looking for a cute book that is interactive, this is a good one. It doesn't have much in the way of substance, but it is nice enough.

Babies love these books.

Good Product!

My little one just loves these books. The moving parts and textures In each book continue to hold his attention and now he is nearly one he is using the tabs himself. These are wonderful books for small fingers and growing minds.

I love all of Matthew Van Fleet's books! My grandchildren have enjoyed his books beginning at a very early age and have continued to request them during story time as they have grown. The books are well made, very colorful, and engaging. They require guidance from an adult until children have learned book handling skills so as not to damage the moving parts or 3D artwork. These books are a favorite!

Wonderful book! It's one of my 10 month old favorite books. Such a unique combination of different kinds of interactions.

My daughter loves this book! It has become a favorite in our house. Unfortunately, she ripped the beaver's head off early on, so now we don't let her look at it unsupervised, but its great!

Charming artwork and varied tactile experiences for little ones as they touch the animal mouths. They can even hear the busy beaver chew his tree branch! Sturdy board book construction withstands enthusiastic toddlers who really love their books. Interesting word choices provide excellent opportunities for teaching vocabulary. Targeted for pre-schoolers, but the material would also be good for beginning readers.
