Social Security - Benefits For Women

Synopsis

Did you know that women represent 57 percent of all Social Security beneficiaries age 62 and older and approximately 68 percent of all beneficiaries age 85 and older. With longer life expectancies than men, women tend to live more years in retirement and have a greater chance of exhausting other sources of income. Women who reached age 65 in 2011 are expected to live an additional 20.7 years compared with 18.7 years for men. Working women, retired, divorced women, mother, widows and caregivers. There is so much more to social security than getting a monthly check. Did you know that if you are divorced, but your marriage lasted 10 years or longer, you can receive benefits on your ex-spouse's record even if he or she has remarried. Learn how to get benefits if you've worked outside the U.S. and how to increase your monthly benefits if you are a widow. If you remarry after age 60 (50 if disabled), your remarriage will not affect your eligibility for survivor benefits. Social Security can even help victims of family violence. Being aware of your rights and the benefits you deserve, Social Security can provide a better life for you, your children and grandchildren.
