Now in fourth grade, the unsinkable Amber Brown copes with the fallout from her parents' divorce in this characteristically energetic series installment. Ages 7-10. (Sept.) Copyright 1999 Reed Business Information, Inc. --This text refers to the Audible Audio Edition edition.

Grade 2-4-Amber Brown has two problems. When a new girl named Kelly Green enters her class, the spirited fourth grader must accept that she is no longer the only student with a colorful name. Her second dilemma is much more serious: she has been invited to spend Thanksgiving with her mother and her mother's fiancé in Washington state. Her father, however, is moving back to the U.S. after living abroad and would like her to spend the holiday with him in New York. Knowing that whatever she decides will hurt someone she loves, Amber struggles with her predicament and finally settles on a thoughtful solution. A likable nine year old with much common sense, she is willing to talk about her feelings openly and honestly and her first-person narration allows readers to be privy to these thoughts and emotions. Another winner in an appealing contemporary series. Maryann H. Owen, Racine Public Library, WI Copyright 1998 Reed Business Information, Inc. --This text refers to the Audible Audio Edition edition.

Part of the Amber Brown series. Great series for girls, age 3-7. Bought for my niece, and she absolutely adored it. Definitely recommend.

I chose five stars because it's really interesting at first sometimes you don't know what she/he is going to decide. Also because kind of and almost like my life but only a little like my life.

My daughter loves this series of books. Highly recommended.

These Amber Brown books are awesome. We laughed and laughed. Really an enjoyable read for kids, especially girls.

The book on Amber Brown is feeling blue is written by Paula Danziger. it is a very good book. and it is about a girl who at first didn't like her name until she meet named kelly green. At first amber didn't like kelly green because she had the same colored name as amber brown. One day Kelly saw a boy barf. She ended up barfing too. Amber Brown told everyone. Then everyone started called Kelly Green, KGB. Amber Brown thought that Kelly was going to be mad but she really didn't care. Amber's parents were divorced. Then one day Amber's mom and boyfriend were going to Walla Walla, New York for the Thanksgiving holiday. At the same time her dad was coming to spend some time with her to spend the holiday in Washington with him. Amber got into all of the conflict between her parents. It was difficult for her to choose. She wanted to be with both of her parents. In the end she chose to go with her dad because he didn't have anyone to spend the holiday with so Amber chose to go with her dad. She was glad she did because they had fun. Wait! I'm not done because there are more stories out there and I won't stop until I get every book on Amber Brown until they are sold out!!

The book Amber Brown is Feeling Blue is a great book. It is about a girl Amber Brown, whose parents had been divorced for a long time. When she went to school, Amber Brown met a girl named Kelly Green. At first, Amber Brown did not like Kelly Green, but after a while Amber Brown started to like her. My favorite part of the book was when they had a sleepover. At the sleepover they were painting their nails and they got nail polish on the rug. They thought that her mom was going to kill them. Then she finally got the nail polish out with nail polish remover. The part of the book that I didn't like was when Amber Brown found out that she was going to Walla Walla, and she could not see her dad when he was going to come. That's really sad. The book was also very funny. I love Amber Brown books and I will read more until I have read them all.
